PROFILE

I have a background in design and arts, but for the past four years I have focused on web development. Through internships and projects, I have worked with modern frontend and backend technologies such as Vue, Nuxt, TypeScript, and Cypress, and contributed to accessibility improvements in municipal systems. My experience at international companies like Apple and as an entrepreneur has given me strong skills in structure, analysis, and working in dynamic environments. My creative background allows me to combine technical quality with a user-centered and visually appealing perspective.
